

Maurizio Parmentola

He graduated in Computer Science Engineering from the University of Naples “Federico II” in 2008 and soon after started working as a junior developer of Microsoft Technologies. Through the years, he has gained experience in analysis and development of medium to large scale projects, combining activity of Team Management with post-release phase Client Support. He works with main technologies and development environments, especially Microsoft.